Lows Defeat High Church Men in Two Matters of Conflict at Convention.

DELEGATES ARE CHOSEN

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 17.—A proposal to allow women to vote at annual parish meetings was defeated to-day in the Long Island diocesan convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church. The vote was 86 year to 80 noes, but a two-thirds with was accessary to change the thirds vote was necessary to change the canon.

The Rev. J. Howard Melish of Brooklyn offered the amendment and made a stirring speech. Canon Chase of Brooklyn was one of his supporters. Asa Bird Gardiner, former District Attorney of New York, said in opposition that he didn't believe women wanted to vote in church elections. He said he felt like many others that women could do more good in their homes than by taking part in church or other elections.

In two matters of conflict between the low and high churchmen the lows won. A canon was introduced to define a
